

I have a dream

it's 2020 and sexism is still a thing, but we can change that. People might call me a radical feminist for this, but that's okay, because yes I am a feminist, and that's a good thing, because we all need feminism, we all need equality.

I have a dream that one day... women will be treated as equals and not as objects.

I have a dream that... men won't be called pussies because they're not tough enough in another men's eyes

I have a dream that one day... women will be able to work beside men and earn the same as them for doing the same tasks as them, because last year men were still paid 21% more

I have a dream that... men won't be too afraid to show normal human emotions and won't have to fear being ridiculed for acting like "an emotional woman"

I have a dream that one day... I can walk home after eight without my mom reminding me to call her when I get off the train and to put my keys between my knuckles "just in case"

I have a dream that... rape and sexual abuse victims won't be blamed for their abuse by being told that "they were asking for it"

I have a dream that one day... female rape victims won't be asked what they were wearing and male rape victims won't be told that they should've enjoyed it

I have a dream that... no will really mean no and won't be taken as a challenge to change their minds

I have a dream that one day... catcalling won't be seen as a compliment

I have a dream that... I won't be told to smile for a man, because I don't want to and I don't have to

I have a dream that one day... when someone rejects a person it's okay and they won't have to fear that they may get raped and murdered, because right now there are still headlines like "Chicago student killed after ignoring man's cat-calls"

I have a dream that... trans men and women will be seen as "real" men and women

I have a dream that one day... I won't be told that we don't need feminism anymore or that it isn't important anymore because it is! Because it's not just about women, it's about white men and women, black men and women, trans men and women, gay men and lesbians, straight men and women, any other sexuality, gender or skin color.

I have a dream that one day... everyone will be a feminist because there's no reason to want inequality

I have a dream that... domestic violence will be a thing from the past. Especially now during quarantine, domestic abuse is increasing, the number of women seeking refuge in women's shelters has increased, the number of instant messages to relevant aid organisations has increased.

I have a dream that... we will start building a better future now

I have a dream today that... after COVID-19 the world will be a better place

I have a dream today